

Kindness

Matt Newman | Ryan Ceola | Brooke Ceola

"Grace permeates Galatians. The letter is about protecting the truth of the gospel which declares what God has done in Christ for sinners. Paul wrote the letter to a group of Christians whom false teachers had infiltrated. Among these newly established congregations, the false teachers were teaching 'a different gospel' (1:6) that required Gentiles to adopt Jewish works of the law in order to be justified before God. Paul reminds these congregations of the sufficiency of the gospel he preached among them. Any attempt to add to the gospel by human effort becomes a denial of grace and renders Christ's death pointless." (2:21).
